The World of Wheat

By H. G. L. STRANGE

Director, Research Department
Searle Grain Company Limited

Many farmers, in order to improve their crops, have wisely sown some Registered and Certified seed. To obtain the best results a field seeded with this high class material should have an alleyway of three feet or more wide, kept clear around it, so that there is no chance of the good material becoming mixed with adjoining lower quality crops.

Gophers, field mice and birds, all carry seeds of other varieties into even the best fields; therefore as soon as plants have headed out, the farmer should walk through his field, and should pull out, by the roots, any plants that obviously do not belong there. This is an operation that pays handsomely.

Some may desire to have their fields inspected next fall so that they can sell the seed in carlots, or sealed in the sack as Registered or Certified. If this is the intention then farmers with Registered seed must communicate before July 1st with Mr. W.T.G. Wiener, Secretary of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, at Ottawa, and those with Certified seed should write to the District Supervisor of Production Services-Plant Products, at Winnipeg, Saskatoon or Calgary, for each of the respective provinces. These gentlemen will then inform the farmer about the next steps to be taken.

Lutheran Daughters of Reformation Conventions

The Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation of the Canada District will meet in convention on Saturday, July 1st, 1939, at 9 a.m., in the Central Lutheran church, cor. 100A ave and 94th St., Edmonton.

The W.M.F. and L.D.R. banquet will be on Friday, June 30, from 4.30 to 6.30 p.m., in the church parlors of Central Lutheran church.

The Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation of the Edmonton circuit will hold their convention at Ryley on Monday, July 3, commencing at 10.30. The convention theme is "On God's Altar" and the Scripture passage in connection with this theme is 1 Cor. 6:20. We are happy to be able to have with us as our guest speaker, Miss Anna Njia of Minneapolis. Pray much that we may have a blessed convention.

We are glad to know the driver has been absolved from blame for her death—technically, because he warned her not to go.

Nevertheless, this is the stuff that heroines are made of. The British government warned Florence Nightingale, in just such fashion, to stay away from the disease infested fields of the Crimea. Local Social Credit Sports and Program Well Attended; Ideal Weather Prevails

Irma Local Social Credit Group No. 1963 held their sports and program Wednesday, June 14th. After a slow start, Irma and the Red Stars played a seven inning game. This was a close, hard fought game as the final score indicates, Irma 8, Red Stars 6.

As soon as the speakers arrived all games were stopped. W. Masson, M.L.A., acting as chairman, introduced the speakers. Mr. Fair, M.P. for Battle River, gave a short talk, with a promise to be with us later. Mr. G. Clash, chairman of the Provincial Marketing Board, was the next speaker and held the attention of the crowd while he told what his department was doing. Mr. Clash is a good speaker and understands his work.

Mr. G. L. McLachlan, chairman of the Social Credit Board, followed with a fine address well worth hearing by a much larger group than were in front of him. Owing to the late hour the younger people were anxious to get at the ball games and were poor listeners to vital issues that were brought out by Mr. McLachlan.

The Viking softball girls met the Irma girls in a close game, score: Irma 4, Viking 2, seven innings. East Viking softball boys met the Irma high school team in a one-sided five inning game. Score: Irma 8, Viking 3.

The final baseball game between Viking and Irma was called at once as a nine inning game but darkness caused it to be stopped at the end of the seventh. Viking started off scoring first and added one more score in the third inning and held Irma scoreless until the fourth inning when Irma found Clanchfield, the Viking pitcher, for five runs and adding two in the fifth and five more in the sixth. Viking started a rally in the sixth but could only get one run across. Total score: Irma 12, Viking 4. H. Larson was referee.

A number of races for the boys and girls were run and there were plenty of entries in all classes, especially among the small girls. It is regretted that some basketball teams did not get here to contest our high school teams.

The hot dog and pie stands were able to care for the hungry.

The dance in the evening was one of the largest affairs of the kind held here. Music was supplied by the Walden Texas Rangers of Edmonton. They surely can play and are a great drawing card wherever they entertain. The weather was ideal and a good time was had by all. The Irma file hand were in attendance and gave several lively tunes. The Group wish to thank all who helped to make this occasion a success.

EDMONTON EXHIBITION FLASHES

Royal Visit Year

Manager Percy W. Abbott of the Edmonton Exhibition can now turn his entire attention to completing arrangements for the Edmonton Exhibition, after a strenuous task as chairman of the Royal Visit Committee. It is his intention to repeat the Royal Visit motif, in Exhibition grounds decorations, and his hope that as many folk will flock to Edmonton for the week of July 17 to 22, as came for the Royal Visit.

Thousands of the pennants which cheered comment from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, will be used in decorating the city and Exhibition grounds for the first annual summer Fair, to be held July 17-22, and many of the large cut-outs which were so effective, will be used in connection with the Exhibition.

Improvements which have been so noticeable around the Exhibition grounds are being continued, and extended; concrete and iron electric light standards are being set in place to light the sidewalk around the west and south sections of the Exhibition grounds. The entire grounds have been drained, graded, and filled with gravel or cinders. As last year, the railway companies and bus lines are offering single-fare return for Edmonton Exhibition, July 17-22.

"If we all increased our thinking even 10 per cent, the human race would take enormous strides forward,"—Charles Potter.

C. C. F. Groups Organize Bruce Constituency Assoc.

(Holden Herald)

Despite the heavy rain and the poor condition of the roads, the attendance at the organization meeting of the C.C.F. groups of the newly formed Provincial Constituency of Bruce (named after Bruce County, Ontario) was held in the Holden community hall Wednesday afternoon, with a fair representation from all parts of the constituency.

Election of officers for the constituency association and the executive consists of: President, Sigurd Lefrud, Viking; Vice-President, John Houston, Holden; Sec'y-Treasurer, L. Peterson, Holden; Board of Directors—Rev. W. J. Bell, Holden; G. P. Barrow, Holden; Mrs. T. A. Cox, Viking; Wm. Gaudin, Viking; C. Buzar, Ryley; E. A. Moen, Tofted; B. M. Anderson, Tofted; C. Lawes, Innisfree; A. Berg, Loughheed; Finance Committee for Radio Fund—Mrs. T. A. Cox, Viking; Mrs. I. C. Olsen, Tofted; Mrs. N. L. Campbell, Holden.

Delegates were also selected to attend the Provincial Convention to be held in Edmonton on July 31st and August 1st and 2nd.

The evening meeting was fairly attended, when Wm. Irvine discussed the principles of the C.C.F. Mr. Ranning also spoke on the Co-operative movement in Norway and New Zealand.

Wedding Bells

HAWTHORN-ADAMS

The marriage of Miss Helen Margaret Adams to Charles Godfrey Hawthorn took place Saturday evening, June 17, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Adams, north of Loughheed. The Rev. R. W. Griffith was the officiating clergyman.

The bride, becomingly dressed in a travelling suit and carrying a bouquet of bridal roses, was given away by her father, John R. Adams.

For Adams, brother of the bride, acted as best man, and Mrs. Geo. E. Smith, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

After the ceremony the guests partook of an elaborate wedding supper.

Among the guests were Magistrate Miller, his wife and daughter, of Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawthorn took the early morning train from Loughheed for Jasper, where they will spend their honeymoon. The happy couple will make their home in Edmonton, where the groom serves in the Bank of Montreal.

We wish Mr. and Mrs. Hawthorn much happiness and prosperity thru their future career.

Vanishing Frontiers

NOT so many years ago Western Canada was being opened up by pushing the railroads further into the unorganized territories. The uncertainty of travel by prairie trail, corduroy road, by river, lake and stream gave way to the regular schedules of the railways. More recently the automobile has developed from the crude, inaccurate "horseless carriage" to the modern streamline beauty of 1939, with all its power, comfort and speed. The flying machine marked a milestone in civilization—an achievement dreamed about by men of imagination for centuries. Today, airplane lines span Canada. Giant ships cover the North.

With the development of fast freight, the automobile and regular air service, the "Mail Order Way" has become the fast way, the economical way to buy. Every transaction is given immediate attention, prompt service and is backed by the EATON guarantee—"Goods Satisfactory or Money Refunded." When the selection is large, the prices low and the service quick, shopping by mail is a pleasure.

The Royal Visit

An historic event which may be expected to leave in its train a lasting and beneficial influence on the course of events in the Dominion, is the recent visit to Canada of Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth. The occasion, as doubtless nearly everybody knows, marks the first appearance of all time in this country of the reigning monarch, and this in itself is indicative of the growing importance of the Dominion of Canada as a nation and as an entity within the Empire.

Their Majesties' tour across the country was nothing less than a triumphal progress. To those who have always been led to believe that Canadians are an undemonstrative and phlegmatic people, the warmth of the reception accorded the King and Queen by their loyal subjects on this side of the Atlantic was a surprise and occasioned amazement to Britons domiciled in the Motherland.

Nor was the acclaim with which Their Majesties were received confined to Canadians of British birth. On the contrary, it was noted during the progress of the Royal tour, that naturalized Canadians vied with those of British birth in the warmth of their demonstrations and the heartiness of their welcome to their sovereigns and his beautiful consort.

Touching The Hearts

His Majesty's kindly demeanour combined with his human outlook and attitude inspired respect and high regard on the part of all who had the opportunity to meet him personally and of that much larger multitude who, of necessity had to be content with little more than a fleeting glance and of reading about his actions and attitude during his visit.

As for Queen Elizabeth, it is no exaggeration to say that her beauty, her consideration for others and her many gracious gestures and kindly actions, coupled with an unassuming manner which did not detract one iota from her high rank, took the country by storm. Canadians immediately took her to their hearts and she left an impression which will long be remembered.

One of the beneficial effects which may be expected from this happy event is a tightening of those ties, loose though strong, which bind Canada to the Motherland and the sister units of the Empire. Had there been any thoughts in the minds of other rulers who harbor the wish as father in the thought that these ties are disintegrating, they must be thoroughly disillusioned by now.

It is also natural to assume that the visit of the King and Queen of Canada to their overseas realm will result in closer unity between the constituent parts of this Dominion, and that is a result which is devoutly to be desired if this country is to assume and maintain the rank in the world of nations to which she is entitled by virtue of her great expanse, the richness of her resources and the courage, initiative and vigor of her people. There should be no important cleavages between any two or more of the nine provinces whose peoples demonstrated in such forthright manner their loyalty, admiration and affection for the occupant of the Throne and his queen.

Undoubtedly, too, the opportunity afforded by the Royal visit to the Canadian people to become better acquainted with the King and the Queen will go a long way towards dispelling any desire which may have made some headway among a minority to espouse some of the various "isms" which have for their objective the overthrow of democratic rule. The enthusiasm which the presence of Their Majesties engendered in the hearts and minds of the people of this country can only be translated as a fervent desire to maintain here that form of government of which King George and Queen Elizabeth are the symbolic heads.

Cementing A Friendship

The decision, also, to extend the visit of the rulers of the Empire to Canada's friendly neighbor to the south, proved to be a most happy plan. The welcome accorded Their Majesties, the first British king and queen to set foot in the United States, in that country is ample evidence of the cordial relations existing between the two great democracies and the visit should do much to cement and augment a kindly feeling and co-operative spirit between the peoples of Great Britain and the United States and Canada and the United States respectively.

Their Majesties had not set foot on Canadian soil very long before their presence made itself felt in improved business conditions. The very fact that they made the trip across the Atlantic was evidence that the international situation was not as dangerous as some feared and believed. The evidence inspired confidence, and confidence was all that was needed to speed up the wheels of industry and that in its turn, should go far towards solving some of the country's major problems.

It may well be that the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to Canada was destined to mark the turning point in the economic welfare of the country.

Long live King George VI. and his beautiful and gracious consort, Queen Elizabeth.

Britain's State Motor Cars

Drawings In Detail Submitted To The King For Approval

Britain's State motor cars are the most carefully planned. The King takes an active part in their design. Chassis and coachwork drawings in great detail are always submitted to him. Frequently he makes practical suggestions, particularly for the inclusion of some item which may help the chauffeur. The King shows great consideration for the men who drive him. The new Daimler State motor car has been fitted with an inlaid glass roof. This was the King's own suggestion in order to get as much light as possible into the car so that Their Majesties can be more clearly seen on State drives when the weather precludes the landaulette hood being lowered. The King has discontinued his father's practice of riding in special forward seats. These are now frequently occupied by the Princesses. In the new car, special raised cushions have been fitted to these folding occasional seats for the benefit of the little Princesses. The car has the typical high roof, necessary to allow the King to wear tall military and other head-dresses on official occasions. All four of the State cars have a complete "secretariat" concealed in the centre arm rest so that the King may write while motoring.

A Queer Specimen

Bermuda Government Aquarium Has Secured A Lion Fish

Louis Mowbray, curator of the Bermuda government aquarium is proud of his latest acquisition.

In name, he admits, is not very impressive. It is "Pterois sp." Visitors to the aquarium, however, hear him call it a "lion fish" as he points out its many unusual features.

"There isn't another one in captivity," Mowbray claims, while admitting that other branches of the species are contained in some collections. The local specimen was given to the aquarium by Vincent Atoll, who obtained it in Hawaii from Christian Holmes, an amateur collector.

The fish is about eight inches long, with pale amber and brown striping and quill-like dorsal fins resembling a lion's mane. Although much smaller than the King of Beasts, the "lion fish" is not much safer to handle for those dorsal spines contain tiny poison-filled sacs. Representing a species which had been thought extinct, "Pterois sp." seemed quite concerned as he went about making himself at home in his aquarium tank.

Ministry Of Education Forbids Make-up For Its School Girls

Turkey has ruled that girls at schools and universities must not try to look like movie stars. The Ministry of Education of Istanbul has notified heads of schools that the girls must not have their hair waved, curled, dyed or otherwise deviate from the "natural".

The misses are also forbidden to use lipstick, powder, face cream or other forms of makeup, and must not wear jewelry or silk stockings.

Boys must have their hair neatly and closely cropped.

Rubber Life Rafts

U.S. Bombers Carry Them Fully Equipped For Emergency

Rubber life rafts capable of supporting 20 men have been adopted by the United States army air corps for its largest bombers. The rafts, which weigh about 11 pounds each, occupy only three cubic feet of space when folded. Equipped with flares, drinking water, repair kits and four coats, each seats 10 persons and has life lines to support an equal number in the water.

The Easiest Way

In view of the prescribed distances at which photographers had to remain during the royal stops on the Western Ontario itinerary, it was suggested that the best way to obtain a picture of their Majesties and avoid the crowd was to buy a postage stamp.

England Was Her Birthplace

But Queen Elizabeth Claims Scotland As Her Native Land

It is generally assumed that Queen Elizabeth is Scotch. Her father is a Scottish earl and her mother was English. The principal family seat is Glamis Castle, in the county of Forfar, Scotland, but the Earl of Strathmore has another mansion at St. Paul's Waldebury, Hertfordshire, England, and it was there that the future Queen was born. Legally, she is Scotch.

But Her Majesty goes further than that. In her speech at the laying of the foundation stone of the Supreme Court building at Ottawa, she referred to Scotland as "my native land." When she spoke to a group of men from the Forfar county of Angus at Vancouver she referred to it as "my native country."

There is a story told of a Scotsman who was boasting about the number of eminent men who were born there. An Englishman said, "Surely you will not claim that Shakespeare was a Scot?" "No," replied the Scot, "but he was good enough to be one."

Queen Elizabeth may not be a native of Scotland but she is good enough to have been St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Fastest Regular Train

Milwaukee Stream-Liner's Average Speed Is 74.6 Miles An Hour

The New York Times says the fastest regular start-to-stop steam train in the world is now made by the Morning Hiawatha of the Milwaukee road, according to Eric Crickmay, railroad expert of Thomas Cook & Son. He reports that this new stream-liner sets the record with an average speed of 74.6 miles an hour in making the 78.3 miles from Sparta to Portage, Wis., in 63 minutes.

"Who are those people who are cheering?" asked the recruit as the soldiers marched to the train. "Those," replied the veteran, "are the people who are not going."

Strength Of Empire

Trend Is To Better The Condition Of The Masses

"I'll tell my Dad." It remained for Ald. Lakie, of Lethbridge, to furnish the best proof yet of Queen Elizabeth's democracy of spirit. Ald. Lakie knew her father in Scotland. When the Queen met the Lethbridge alderman and he told her of his acquaintance with her father, she said, quite as casually as one Old Countryman to another, "I'll tell my Dad."

If there has been a tendency in democracies during the past quarter of a century to set up classes which show the extremes up in contrast—and we fear there has been—the humanness of King George and Queen Elizabeth shown during their Canadian tour should do much to cure it. The British Empire will continue strong as long as the whole trend is to better the position of the masses, and that betterment will come about the sooner if there is a sympathetic understanding of democratic principles by those in high places.—Lethbridge Herald.

Revenue From Wolves

Considerable Source Of Wealth Derived From Wolf Pelt

Canada has a general unsuspected source of wealth in its wolf skins. Alive the wolf is a marauder, destroying sheep and poultry on Algonna farms, for example, and doing serious depredation among our game.

But dead, his pelt is a thing of value, whether it be for robes, fur coats or other uses. And at times it provides a substantial export trade. In the fiscal year ending March 31, 1937, for instance, exports of wolf pelts were valued at $665,018, and in the five years from 1934 to 1938 the total value of such exports was $1,882,792, not very much short of two million dollars. Banks Are Protected

Any Money Stolen By Bandits Is Fully Insured

The Peterborough Examiner says: There has been how and then some argument regarding the loss suffered by a bank when it is robbed, some contending that the branch would have to look upon the loss the same as one sustained in any other way, while others held that money was insured.

The Examiner made inquiry through the Canadian Press service at Toronto, and the reply was: "Chief inspector's office of Canadian Bank of Commerce reports universal practice in chartered banks in Canada is to have all funds insured, so no robbery is at the expense of the bank involved."

The money to pay for the insurance of funds would probably be assessed against the earnings of all branches. Banks have weapons and in nearly all cases there is training in how to use them, but banks do not encourage employees to start shooting it out with any invaders. The individual can use his own discretion regarding such a move, but the official view is that a man's life is worth more than the money which may be stolen.

Duncan Van Doren arrived within the first week after the accident. Duncan's well-worn face showed the effects of grief and shock; his pleasant veneer was rubbed off. "Well, I'm here now," he said, "and I'm here to stay until she gets well—or—doesn't get well."

Mrs. Dana gave him a warm smile. "Duncan dear?" It was certain, he had assured her, that her child would live. "But Bixford, who is the greatest bone specialist this side of Chicago, won't make any prognosis yet about the spine."

Conrad Jordan, who had left Tahore instantly to join in the search, remained to look after Gunnar. "Though there's nothing I can do," he admitted to Lynn Dana, "except walk up and down that horrible-smelling hall with him, bubbling about all the injured spines I've known cured, and dragging him out to eat infrequently. He begrudges every instant away for fear it might be the time they would let him see her." He shook his head. "And why, can't he see her?"

"Why, I understand that no one—his friend began."

"On the contrary. All her family, the old governess, the large, plump, optimistic aunt—That's the abominable part of it."

"The man in the wheeled-chair was against. He seemed to have aged years in days. 'You think they are definitely determined to keep him away from her? She isn't conscious enough to ask for him?'"

"Even if she is, they won't let him in!" Mary Dana Webster said hotly. She managed to run in to see Lynn Dana every day for a few minutes of aching sympathy. "It simply burns me up to look at him," she told her husband. "He knows what it means. Do you suppose he blames himself, Neddy?" she asked him. "That makes it a million times worse if he does."

"Well, he might at that," Ned Webster had shaken his head. "If he and the old lady hadn't given her the plane—"

"But, if she hadn't gone up with that miserable bum of a girl—"

"Yes, but if she hadn't been a flier it never could have happened to her."

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will love you to distraction. BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested in you. So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for a generations one woman has told another to go "Gunnar" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has built up more than a million women and this side is giving you more pep and better health than any other medicine.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

he said reasonably. "And I expect that's the way the family figures, her mother anyway."

"I know," Mary Dana Webster nodded. "I wish Sally Ann would come home."

"She will, later," Lynn Dana said. "I cabled and wrote that her presence would mean more to Sarah Lynn in a little while, during the waiting period—weeks, months of it, probably." All three of them were thinking that it might be years, as it had been for him. "You know, people are no good kind and sorry, but the drama goes out of the situation, presently. I mean, they get used to the fact, and life goes on again, and—well, the calls and the flowers and books and things dwindle away."

"There'll be whole conservatories full of flowers now that Duncan is here," Mary said bitterly.

CHAPTER XIII.

Gunnar Thorwald was pacing the corridor when Duncan Van Doren got out of the elevator. Duncan's head was down; he did not see the flier. Gunnar stared incredulously, striding toward him, thrusting out an arm to block his way.

"You have seen her?" There was an emphasis on the first pronoun which made the question at once a demand and a protest.

Duncan looked at him with swimming eyes, nodding, his face convulsed. He manifested no recent conviction, no conviction that before him stood the cause of the tragedy; only an engulfing flood of sympathy and sorrow. He gulped, groping for his handkerchief. "Horrible—cruel—"

Gunnar pushed past him toward the elevator, but it rose as he reached it, so he turned and went leaping up the stairs. A woman with a big bouquet of garden flowers shrank out of his way.

"Mercy!" she said to her husband. "That fellow looks like a mental case!"

He flung himself through the door in spite of the card in the brass frame which read:

Dana
Drs. Dunn and Bixford
NO VISITORS

but he stood still on the threshold, staring.

Mrs. Dana, standing at the window, her back to him, turned at the sound of his entrance. "Please leave the room!" she said in an angry whisper. "No callers are permitted. My daughter is—"

Gunnar was not listening. There was nothing she could tell him about her daughter. He continued to stand still, looking at the door.

"Leave this room instantly! I will ring for an orderly to put you out!" Mrs. Dana cried wildly. "Haven't you done enough? Aren't you satisfied with the suffering, the agony—she was bearing down on him in soft fury. "Do you want to kill her?"

But Gunnar had reached the bed. He had leaned over Sarah Lynn, shaking, and said her name.

She was as nearly white as the olive and amber and ivory of her skin could be, and her nose, her brow, her chin, her cheek-bones were as sharp and salient as if they had been chiseled from marble. Her eyes flew open, bigger and darker than ever, sunk in shadowed hollows, and a startled recognition came into them at once and a blazing joy.

"My heart!" Gunnar said hoarsely. "My dearest heart!" He could not have known what he looked like, but he remembered to smile at her. Mrs. Dana came and pulled at his arm but he shook her off and bent lower, still smiling. "My heart—"

Sarah Lynn's eyes widened, the pupils distending, and a strange look of fright and something stranger still came into them. "No!" she cried. "Go away! Please, please go away!"

Mrs. Dana was pressing the button. "Now, do you hear?" she triumphed. "Do you hear?"

Gunnar thought it was delirium. He said gently, "It is Gunnar, my dearest one—to stay with you always." He bent to kiss her.

But Sarah Lynn, pinioned and helpless, able to move nothing but her eyes, nevertheless, with every fibre of her being repelled him. "No, No! Go away! Never come again—never—come again!"

The press played it up and the radio buzzed with bulletins about Gunnar Thorwald's return fight across the Atlantic, but no newspapers came into Sarah Lynn's hospital room, and they never tuned in for news flashes—only for music or comedy programs, or an occasional playlet which was known to be pleasant and amusing.

Gunnar's name was not mentioned after the day of his visit. When, at length, he had been compelled to leave the room, he could hear Sarah Lynn's voice, spent but shrill, saying to her mother, "Make him go away! Make him go away!"

He had not waited to hear her mother's answer, hovering over her in an agony of protective tenderness,

SHE COULD NEITHER WALK NOR SLEEP

Arms and Feet Swollen With Rheumatism

This woman suffered for many years. Pain sapped her strength until she lost hope of recovery. Many remedies were tried, but nothing broke the grip of her crippling rheumatism. At last her husband persuaded her to try Kruschen Salts.

"My arms and feet were swollen with rheumatism," she writes. "I could not walk nor get regular sleep, and nothing did me any lasting good. I was so hopeless of ever getting better, I lost my good nature entirely. Then my husband persuaded me to try Kruschen Salts. After two weeks I began to feel better. I persevered, and in six weeks, I was doing housework. Later, I was able to go for a walk. Now I am free from pain and I feel grand."—(Mrs. F.W.)

Rheumatism is commonly caused by deposit of uric acid crystals which lodge in the muscles and joints. Kruschen helps to break up these deposits of troubling crystals and to convert them into a harmless solution, which is removed through the natural channel—the kidneys.

and he did not know that Sarah Lynn had cried, quietly, ceaselessly, for three days. The tears trickled out of the corners of her eyes and slid down her temples into her hair, and she could not lift her hand to wipe them away.

Her doctors and nurses were disturbed, but they didn't seem able to control it. "This isn't helping any," Miss Burke said.

"It is just the reaction, the great relief, after that distressing and cruel interview the other day," Mrs. Dana insisted. "Darling, you are safe with Mother, and no one is going to bother you again! Mother's right here!" She saw the nurse's cool gray eyes upon her and followed her out into the aggressively clean-smelling corridor. "It is perfectly natural," she said rather combatively. "She regards him as the cause of her misfortune, so of course she shrinks from him."

"You think so?" Miss Burke said levelly. "Well, I can't give all the answers, but that wouldn't be my diagnosis." She went away with her noiseless, heelless tread. She was glad she was going on her vacation; she hated to have cases get her as this one did.

Sarah Lynn persistently asked for the old family doctor from Los Gatos and they were obliged to send for him. He could contribute nothing, they felt sure, but it was a comfort to the child.

"Suppose you just step out and let us have our visit alone," he said mildly. Then he sat down and patted her hand. "Well, Sarah Lynn, I brought you into the world, as the old saying goes, and I saw you through measles and chickenpox and the rest of 'em. I'm mighty sorry about this. Was there anything special you wanted to say to me?"

She could not turn her head, but her eyes turned to him. "You tell the truth, always. Am I going to die?"

"No," he said heartily. "I'm not up on all the details of your case, of course, but I had a talk with Dunn. No, there's no doubt about it. Sarah Lynn: you're going to live."

"Must I?"

He cleared his throat. "I guess you must, girl. I guess that's your chore."

Sarah Lynn said after a long pause. "I know doctors can't—kill people. It's only animals that can be—what do they say?—put out of their misery. But can't they—just not make people live?"

He shook his grizzled head. "That's their chore, Sarah Lynn, making people live." Then he said briskly. "But it's not going to be like this, you know, always."

Sarah Lynn said. "They used to give me stuff all the time to make me sleep. I wish they still did. If I have to live, I think they might do that for me."

"Pain still bad?"

"Not my back . . . my head, my heart. Will you ask them to give it to me again?"

"No," the old country doctor said. "I won't do that, Sarah Lynn. You wouldn't want me to. I guess it took plenty of grit to go up in your plane, and more than plenty to come down in a parachute. But I believe you have a lot of grit left." He stood up, looking down at her, his eyes very bright. "Yes, you've got to live, Sarah Lynn."

On a card in the front window of a suburban home appeared the following notice:

"A piano for sale." In the window next door another card appeared with just one word: "Hurrah!"

A Great Sculptor

John Theodore Tussaud Has Modelled More Than 1,500 People

The world's most famous poops are just wax in the hands of a man who has just celebrated his 82nd birthday and golden wedding.

John Theodore Tussaud, white-haired and kindly head of the famous waxworks famous, has modelled more than 1,500 people.

"I've been to hundreds of famous trials, watching every facial line and mannerism of criminals who later were added to our exhibition," he said.

"Royalty and famous politicians I invariably model after watching them during their public engagements and memorizing them until I get back to the studio."

The man, whose work has been seen by nearly every member of the Royal family during the past half-century, remembers the time when he lifted up the present King as a child.

"He was touring the exhibition. At present Mr. Tussaud is putting the finishing touches in his studio to the wax figure of Queen Mary."

"I have perfected a self-hardening form of clay of my own composition," he said. "I believe it will revolutionize sculpture."

Hunting Boers' War Chest

Three Brothers Hope To Locate Treasure In South Africa

A new search is to be made for the "Kruger millions"—the money, gold and valuables which formed the Boers' war chest during the South African War.

Three brothers named We Wet, of the Brydadsdorp district of Cape Province, have in their service a Saanto called Williams who said he helped hide the treasure when he was batman to Gen. Cronje.

At President Kruger's house he assisted in loading the treasure on to an ox cart, which he then led to a spot between Pretoria and Pietersburg. Along with other natives, he had previously been ordered to dig holes near this place.

Gen. Cronje and Gen. De Wet, who had accompanied the wagon, then ordered the load to be transferred to a Scotch cart which they brought along. The two Boer leaders then went off with the Scotch cart and when they returned it was empty.

The brothers De Wet plan to have Williams guide them to the place in the meantime they have written to the Government to ask how they would stand if they found anything.

Child Training

Parents Are Warned Against Trying To Make Geniuses Of Their Children

Proud parents are advised by a teacher of psychology to stop trying to make "geniuses" out of pre-school age children.

Dr. Alexander Schneiders, psychologist of Loyola University, says parents cause "irreparable harm" to youngsters by helping to develop either "social or educational maladjustments."

Asserting it was "impossible to make anything like a genius out of the average child," Dr. Schneiders deplored a widespread tendency, particularly among educated persons, to satisfy their own egos by forcing their children into intellectual moulds ill-suited to their native capacity or temperament.

Compelling children—even before they are able to hold their books upright—to recite poems, count up to 100, or name offhand the streets of the cities in which they live, were named by Dr. Schneiders as among the practices used in parental efforts to develop precocious youngsters.

Not A New Idea

Air-Conditioning Was Used In King Solomon's Time

The site of King Solomon's great factory town of Ezion-Geber on the Red Sea—"The Pittsburg of Palestine"—has been uncovered in excavations just completed by Nelson Glueck, director of the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem, Yale University announced.

Many buildings in the vast smelting centre were air-conditioned for heat and contained an elaborate system of flues and air channels that permitted utilization of strong north winds as natural blasters.

Queer Book Markers

Some People Make Use Of Anything That Is Handy

City librarians of Longmont, Colorado, report that they have found several toothbrushes in returned books. Other unorthodox markers include safety pins, comic valentines, absorbent cotton, blades of grass, price tags, candy wrappers, crochet hooks, photographs and drawings.

"People jump up to answer the doorbell, to keep the steak from burning or to perform some other emergency task and they jam anything that is handy into the book," is the way the librarians figure it out.

Real Baseball

Is Game In Small Town Between Home Team And Visitors

Baseball is a game played on a hot afternoon under a broiling sun and under the watchful eyes of indignant enthusiasts. A game played under the stars and floodlights is something else. The specialist may even question whether the games played in the big league parks, day or night, are really baseball. The real, true genuine baseball, in the opinion of many is the game played in a small town between the home team and the visitors a game attended by the entire population and a game which enforces a public holiday because the stores are deserted anyway. That is baseball. —Halifax Chronicle.
